WHAT ONE COW WILL DO.

A garden of one acre may be kept richly manured by the droppings of one cow. For five years past I have reserved one pet Jersey cow for the use of the house, and have kept her up in a stable near the house and fed her upon the lawn-mowings and a small plot of grass, with the vegetable waste of the house and garden. The produce of the acre is more than sufficient to feed the cow, and the year round with the help of four quarts daily of feed. This amounts to about one ton per year, costing about $25. I estimate the milk, cream, and butter of a good cow to be worth to a family $100 a year. That is, it would cost that sum to purchase the amount of these used in the family. There will be a surplus of milk or butter to be sold equivalent to a further sum of $50. The manure for one acre of garden will pay well for the labor of attending to the cow, and in ten years will pay for the cow besides. So that a good cow, when well cared for, will produce in ten years the actual sum of $1,000, besides paying for herself, her feed, and attention. Then there will be eight calves besides and skimmed milk and butter-milk to partly feed a pig or a flock of poultry. And then the comfort and pleasure of it.

I am already feeding down a small piece orchard grass under some apple trees the third time, by tethering the cow upon it. Some of the grass I have just cut the second time, and some will give a third cutting. Fifty rows of sweet corn are now beginning to yield boiling ears and the stalk and husk go to the cow. There are pea-vines, beet-tops, small potatoes, and other wastiness to help feed the cow luxuriously, and in this way the family cow may be kept in abundance throughout the year, while her manure will keep the whole acre growing richer every year and will provide a liberal quantity for the flower-beds and the dwarf pears on the lawn. A very large quantity of the best manure made by throwing the weeds with all the soil attached to them, the leaves that are raked up, and the ashes from the house, together with as much soil as may be needed into a shallow pit in the yard and leading the drainage from the manure gutter into it. If a farm were only managed as one manages the garden, every acre might easily pay a hundred dollars; but the labor is not to be had, and one pair of hands cannot do it for more than five or six acres. But the time will come when it must be done; when the land becomes fully occupied and this great country has its 500,000, 000 of inhabitants, a number which it can sustain with the greatest ease with a thorough system of cultivation.—Cor. N. Y. Times.

APPLYING MANURE ON THE SURFACE.—No loss of importance occurs by escape of grass from manure lying on the surface of meadows or plowed ground. The manure may be spread on the land as soon as made, fresh from the stables, without losing any sensible portion of ammonia by evaporation. Manure from the yard or stable rarely contains such an amount of volatile fertilizing matter as should deter from spreading it broadcast on the surface when most convenient. Unless manure is very rich, as from grain-fed animals, and is in an active state of fermentation, hot and smoking, and exhales a distinct smell of hartshorn, there can be no loss from exposure, and in any case the loss will be less by spreading it over thinly than by dropping it in small heaps, because spreading means cooling and loss of fermentation. But manure, when properly handled, need not suffer any waste from evaporation. A moderate and regulated heating of fresh manure results in the formation of humic acid, which secures the ammonia from loss by evaporation. Surface manuring is especially effective on sandy soils, and a light dressing yearly is far more beneficial than heavy coatings once in three or four years. But the best results on sandy soils is when they are dressed with a compost of manure and clayey muck.—Rural World.

Miscellaneous.

HE WANTED TO ENCOURAGE THEM.

In a village not twenty miles from Boston resided a "poor but honest" cobbler, whose work, was poor as well as his purse, and having a large family he found it very difficult to "get along," although largely assisted in many ways by his townspeople, this one giving pork, that one a fowl or eggs, the other one cast-off clothing, etc.

Some years ago one of the religious societies of the place voted to build a church, and the parishioners, being very impecunious, decided to ask every man in the village to subscribe, and among the rest the cobbler, hoping he could and would give fifty cents or may be a dollar, as he might thus express his gratitude.

To the amazement of all he signed for two hundred dollars. Then were all agog and the village store had a new topic, where it was concluded that as he had been very economical and assisted so much he might have "saved up" two or three thousand dollars.

On the first and many succeeding calls the collector was told: "I cannot pay to-day."

When the edifice was completed and a settlement desired, a last but very urgent request brought out the same reply.

"When can you pay it?" "Don't know."

"If that is to much what can you give?" "Nothing; hain't got a dollar."

"Have you met with any reverses since you subscribed?" "No."

"Did you know, when you signed you couldn't pay?" "Yes."

"Then why did you?" "Well, I thought I'd encourage the rest on yer."—Boston Journal.

"What!" exclaimed an Austin justice to a colored culprit, "have you the audacity to say you do not recognize this pocket-book?"

"Yes sah."

"But it was found in your possession."

"In my what did yer say, judge?" "In your possession. This pocket-book was found in your possession, sir."

"Judge, you has done tole two stories about dat ar. Fust, yer said hit was foun' in my possession, and den yer 'lowed it was foun' in my pocket. Bofe dem yarns can't be true."

The justice called the culprit to order, and once more producing the pocket-book, said: "You denied just now any knowledge of this pocket-book. I now ask you again, did you ever see this pocket-book before?"

"Why of course. Hit am de same one you showed me a minit ago. Yer must be losing yer mind, judge."

TOOK EXCEPTIONS.—At the Art Loan the other day a fat man with his hands under his coat-tails stood before a painting, when one of two ladies who were criticising a landscape near by exclaimed, "What exquisite harmony!"

"And how perfect in detail!" added the other.

The man uttered a grunt of dissatisfaction and turned around.

"Observe the coloring," continued the lady.

The fat man removed his spectacles and felt his nose.

And what a charming perspective!" added the other.

"Yes—exactly—exactly!" growled the man as he pocketed his glasses and started for the door.

If I can't come in here without being ridiculed and burlesqued I'll stay out! No true lady would make fun of a strange gentleman this way—never!—Detroit Post.

HE WAS CONVINCED.—A citizen having painted the front of his grocery hung out a sign bearing the word "Paint."

"Ah! so you have been painting?" queried the first man who came along.

"Yes, sir."

"Is it fresh paint?"

"It is."

"Will it rub off?"

"It will."

"Ah! yes—I see—so it does," continued the man, as he rubbed his hand over the boards and brought it away covered with daub.

TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels constive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dot before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers" of the system, producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect ANTIDOTE TO MALARIA.

HE FEELS LIKE A NEW MAN. "I have had Dyspepsia, with Constipation, two years, and have tried ten different kinds of pills, and TUTT'S are the first that have done me any good. They have cleaned me out nicely. My appetite is splendid, food digests readily, and I now have normal passages. I feel like a new man." W. D. EDWARDS, Palmyra, O. Sold everywhere, 25c. Is not too often to use it, yet if once a day the teeth are brushed with WOOD'S DENTIFRICE the greatest change is observed.
